INNOVATION, COLLECTIVE INTELLIGENCE AND RESILIENCE IN HEALTHCARE ORGANISATIONS

As part of its teaching and research activities, ISM-IAE is organising a conference on Tuesday 14 May on the theme of 'Innovation, collective intelligence and resilience in healthcare organisations', led by Dr Aline Courie-Lemeur.

This Rencontre du management proposes a debate based on the book 'Innovation, intelligence collective et résilience des organisations de santé' coordinated by Aline Courie-Lemeur, published in French by Editions ISTE and in English by Editions WILEY.

It includes a dialogue between researchers and practitioners on the resilience of healthcare organisations, based on the experiences of a panel of contributors to the book, including Annie Bartoli, Yves Charpak, Sylvain Gautier, Marianne Sarazin and Jihane Sebai.

Corinne Grenier will conclude the debate as a key speaker on innovation in healthcare, addressing new paradigms and the transformation of the healthcare system.
This event will be followed by a presentation of Posters linked to the chapters of the book to encourage discussion and a Cocktail.
